To Address Binghampton Civic Club

Benjamin F. Blakey, a state tax inspector, has been engaged to address the Binghampton Civic League during a meeting scheduled for 8 p.m. Monday, June 25 at New Tyler AME church, 568 Carpenter ave.

The young community worker has been asked to talk about the non-partisan Tennessee Voter's Council, recently formed in Nashville. Its membership consists of both Republicans and Democrats.

Blakey said "I believe that the Tennessee Voter's Council made a very wise choice when it endorsed the candidacy of Frank G. Clement several weeks ago. The Shelby County Democratic Club also showed wisdom in endorsing the former governor's efforts to win the gubernatorial race."

While expressing a desire to help maintain unity, Blakey said "unity is the most important thing at this time—both among our leaders and within our community. Without it, we cannot be effective locally, in our state or on the national level."

Blakey explain "in the absence of unity, only small cliques receive full recognition whether it is within an organization or government."

He added "I think all other civic clubs and political organizations, if they endorse a gubernatorial candidate, should follow the example set by the Tennessee Voter's Council in its endorsement of former Governor Clement who is seeking his third term."

The first vice president, Rev. Alexander Gladney, automatically become the official presiding officers of the club.

Kilpatrick inherited the presidency during a storm-infested session when the former president, A. Maceo Walker, resigned last August after he was selected to the Memphis Transit Authority.

In his letter of resignation Kilpatrick was vague in stating his reason for the move. However, it has been generally known that some of club's members felt that because of his affiliation with U. S. Congressman Cliff Davis, Kilpatrick "could not serve as club president without a conflict of interest."

The Shelby County Democratic club endorsed the candidacy of Ross Pritchard last week. He is one of Davis' opponents in his reelection.

Kilpatrick's resignation stated: "... Holding this position has been a rich and rewarding experience. However, at a time when this organization is at its strongest, and when unity is an important factor in the struggle of Negroes for first class citizenship and political recognition, I feel that it is incumbent upon me to resign," as president.

He pledged his continued support of the club.

held the party together for 25 years during the Roosevelt Administration when Mr.
James and others were following the New Deal in the Democratic Party. It certainly wasn't any patronage then.

JOHN BIRCHES

"Now, Mr. James and other Johnny-come-latelies are trying to run the Negroes out of the party and take it over lock, stock, and barrel. Mr.
James is wrong. I have no ambition for party control. I would be on the side line today, if I wasn't called upon at this time to fight against Mr. James' efforts to bring about an unhappy coalition with the John Birchers, the Minute Men and others of their kind."

Lee's obvious indirect reference was to the historical background of former efforts of lily-white Republicans in other states. During the first 35 or 40 years of the 1900's there were other outstanding Negro political leaders similar to Lt. Lee in political astuteness, contacts, and prominence. They, too were outstanding in the Republican Party. But lily-white groups (those who wanted party control in white hands) constantly opposed these men. They were eventually swept out of power, or vacating their places due to age or death, were not replaced with men of similar stature of their race. Among them were such men as Scio-pio Jones of Arkansas, Walter Cohen of Louisiana, Bill
McDonald of Texas, Perry Howard of Mississippi, Lincoln Johnson of Georgia, Robert R. Church and George W.
Lee of Memphis.

Lee is the last of these old line Negro political leaders, whose political "know-how"
and effectiveness made them
"men apart" in the national and local political picture. Mr.
Lee is "the last of the Mohi-cans," so to speak.

NEGRO REPUBLICANS
His current opposition with lily-white Republicans, as represented by James, is a life and death struggle for his political survival. In many Negro circles, the question is being increasingly asked, "If Lt.
Lee is defeated and knocked out of influence in the Republican Party, what other Negro political leader of his stature is there left in Memphis and the Mid-South to replace him?"

The question is leading to re-examination among many local Negroes, Democrats as well as Republicans, of their own and Lee's political outlook and philosophy. The current contest between James and Atty. Raymond M. Briggs (supported by Lee) to win the nomination in the Republican primary on July 3, will determine whether or not Lee's philosophy and record are understood and approved of by local citizens.

Lee says, "The current attempt to unload Negro Republicans on the Democratic party and make the Republicans a white man's party is just another skirmish in the battle to defeat Negroes in their efforts to achieve first-class citizen hip. James, in his attack on me in the Press-Scimitar, calls on Republicans and conservative Democrats to vote for him in the primary rather than a Democratic candidate, in order to break the strength of Lt. Lee and his group."

CALL TO NEGRO DEMOCRATS

"And by the same token, I am calling on progressive Republicans, Negro and white Democrats to vote for me and my constituents in the Republican primary. This is not contrary to what has been done in Memphis when the citizens found it necessary to put issue above party."

"When Eisenhower carried Shelby county, 60,000 Democrats voted for him against the Democratic candidate because he was a national hero who symbolized the idea of the nation better than the Democrat Stevenson. When Nixon ran for office 65,000 white Democrats went over to him because Kennedy was a Catholic."

In an interview recently Lt.
Lee pointed out that parties are not involved in local election as much as they are in national campaigns. His directive to local voters is to forget local party differences and place issue above party.
In the current local GOP intra-party tiff he is urging voters to vote as they will in the general election but also be sure to vote in the Republican primary for Briggs, the Old Guard (Mr. Lee) candidate.

Lee, touching on this point in his reply, said, "The Republican party has made a great record in progressive fiscal responsibilities and civil rights. And that clear image of the party should not pass from the earth."

"James' idea of a successful two-party system, whether he will admit it or not, is to destroy me and all that I represent all because I happen to be different from him in race, in face, and features."

"Mr. James represents a crowd that feed on race hate, on national frustration, and undermine our national purpose of freedom. He belongs to a crowd who seek to im-pugn the integrity and patriotism of such respected American leaders as President
Eisenhower and Chief Justice Earl Warren of the Supreme Court... a crowd who seek to fix a Communist label on or make a whipping boy out of all people who don't suit

BBB Alerts Tri-State To Home Improvement Racket

"Be on the lookout for the "Suede Shoe boys" is warning the Memphis Better Business Bureau is giving to all homeowners in the Tri-State area.

"Suede Shoe boys," explains
George V. Morse, Jr., BBB manager, "is a term applied to high pressure itinerant salesmen who sell home improvements, principally home siding installations to home owners, through highly misleading, and in some cases, fraudulent representations.

"They falsely claim to be representing some well-known manufacturer of home siding, and verbally promise that the prospective home is going to be used for advertising purposes, and the manufacturer is willing to give big discounts to those few who are "selected," he added.

DRIVE NEW CARS

The high pressure salesmen usually dress flashily, drive late model, expensive cars, and try to make the victim think they are doing him a favor.

The men usually have no
local installation or service organization, but subcontract the jobs out to other firms.
Frequently, they live in high style in luxury hotels and motel, and often leave town without paying bills.

Promises to pay commissions or to allow price discounts or allowances for advertising purposes have been outlawed by the Federal Trade Commission in recent-

WE ARE TOLD that the great star of the musical world, Earl Grant is coming to Memphis to visit a friend.

FRANK KILPATRICK stepped down as president of the Shelby County Democratic club last Monday night. Now he can devote full time to working for the Congressional candidate of his expressed choice, Cliff Davis.

W. W. Walker is reported to be making noises as if he is campaigning for Cliff Davis. At a political meeting last week he spoke of Lewis Taliaferro and Ross Pritchard in something less than glowing terms. While he did not point out the "virtues" of Cliff Davis, by the same token he did not point to his "vices."

FRANK G. CLEMENT is clearly the strongest candidate in the gubernatorial race as far as the Shelby Democratic Club is concerned. He received 144 votes to Bill Farris' eight and P. R. Olgiate's 13.

A STRANGE TWIST took place when the members of the Shelby County Democratic club started to vote on congressional candidates. Ross Pritchard got 150; Cliff Davis got 12 and Lewis Taliaferro got zero.

DON'T BE SURPRISED when Negro candidates start to declare themselves.

O. Z. EVERS said that Dr. Ross Pritchard threatened to punch him in the nose last Sunday afternoon on the steps of Centenary Methodist church. Evers said that Pritchard "told me to watch my step and don't get smart with me." Evers said he replied to Pritchard in language that is not taught in Sunday school. That is when Pritchard threatened him with a nose punch said Evers.

ANXIOUS SCHOLARS — Learning to read after many years of illiteracy is a great thrill for these men who doubled up on lessons offered by the World Literacy Foundation. Some 52 workers at the Firestone Tire and Rubber company here completed the course and were given certificates. The classroom was an auditorium in the union hall at 1036 Firestone, and the men studied on their own time. Assisting the men in classroom work was George Toole.

New World Opens For 52 Firestone Workers

The number of illiterate men working at Firestone Tire and Rubber company here has been reduced from 203 to 151 since Jan. 15.

Recently 52 men were given certificates for completing the first two phases of the Streamlined Reading course offered here by the World Literacy Foundation.

On graduation day, men who could only sign their names at best when the course began, showed off their new knowledge by reading "The Lord's Prayer," "The Star Spangled Banner," and the "Pledge of Allegiance." They can write sentences now and punctuate them correctly.

WRITES LIST NOW — One man testified that he no longer has to rely on his memory when he goes shopping. He takes along a list and brings home every article.

Inauguration of the classes was the brainchild of George Toole of 1272 Firestone ave., and other officials of Local 186 of the United Rubber Workers of America with headquarters at 1036 Firestone.

"Many of these men were hired during World War II," Toole said, "and at that time those who could not read or write were hired."

"There were supervisors near enough to tell them what to do, and they got along without the necessity of reading anything."

"But today," he explained, "the plant has changed, there are fewer supervisors and in order to operate some of the machines, one has to read instructions."

Toole said some men were promoted to higher jobs on the basis of seniority, but were unable to hold them because they could not read.

MADE COMPLAINTS — "Then they would bring their complaints to the Union," he said. "It is hard to tell them they can't have jobs because they can't read or write, but they have to go on the street and are idle until a job comes along they can handle. In the meantime men who came to the plant long after they did are inside and working."

The men started in the reading course after it was almost at the midway point on television, but they caught up by having classes four times a week in the union hall, using video tape from the World Literacy Foundation.

Assisting on the nights that Toole had to be away was Clarence Cole of 1359 Doris.

OTHERS INTERESTED — Toole said the men have asked that the class be given at least once a week during the summer.

After the Public Works Commission found out how well the men at Firestone were doing, a course was started for sanitation workers, Toole said.

He added that when an illiterate man at Firestone was arrested recently and charged with using the mail to send an extortion letter and the man claimed he could not read or write, the FBI checked to see if he had joined the streamlined reading class.

He had not, but Toole hopes to enroll him with the group this fall.

"The men will be better citizens now," Toole said, "because they can go to the polls and read the names on the ballots without some one else telling them how to vote."

Working Students Need S.S. Cards

Students who work for pay during summer vacation need social security numbers, announces the social security office in Memphis.

Most businesses around Memphis will not employ anyone who does not have a social security card. The employer is required by Federal law to make a record of each employee's name and account number as shown on the social security card.

The social security office at 1328 Monroe ave., has application forms for social security cards. If you have lost your card, they will help you get a duplicate just like your original card. People who live out of Memphis can obtain applications for social security numbers at any Post Office.

Misuse Of Social Security Can Mean Prison Sentence

"Criminal violations of laws affecting social security payments can result in imprisonment and heavy fines," Warren Maddox, district manager of the Social Security Administration in Memphis, warned this week.

Maddox called attention to the sentence imposed in Miami, Fla., last week on Mrs. Mary Smith Charbonneau, who had converted to her own use some $10,077 in monthly social security checks paid to her for the use and benefit of her three minor children.

She was sentenced to serve three months in prison, placed under probation for five years by Federal District Judge David W. Dyer and ordered to repay the $10,077 at the rate of $40 a month as a condition of her probation.

PROPER USE — Maddox pointed out that social security benefits received by all persons on behalf of children, or on behalf of adults incapable of managing the benefits themselves, must, under law, be expended for the use and benefit of such children or adults.

He urged those having questions concerning the proper use of such benefits paid to them on behalf of others to contact the Social Security Administration District Office or the Social Security field representative who visits this area.

THE Pulpit SPEAKS

REV. C. THOMAS PAIGE

"But when he was yet a great way off, his father saw him, and had compassion, ran, and fell on his neck and kissed him."

FATHER'S DUTY

Throughout the world observed Father's Day. This observation is in keeping with a much needed reawakening. Today, fathers need to be aroused to their real responsibilities as fathers.

The one thing which should be strongest in the whole scheme of the social setup of our world is its weakest. Never before has man been so far from the real meaning of what it means to be a father.

Countless children are hungry each night while fathers indulge in things that deprive them of food.

Many children go to bed each night unloved because fathers have failed to grow up.

REAL FATHER

Those things which have meant so much to children down through the years must still have a meaning for children today. No parent wants a wayward child but oftentimes it can't be helped. But wayward or not, it is still our child.

The familiar story of a prodigal son gives us a vivid picture of the role of a real father. The father recognized his son at a distance. As the son got nearer it was not a feeling of antagonism but a feeling of forgiveness that motivated his action. He had compassion—felt sorry for him, ran out and fell on his neck and kissed him.

What a great difference this would make in our world if, like this father, countless fathers were to meet their wayward children with the same spirit—a spirit of forgiveness. Oftentimes, due to immaturity, a child will—like this prodigal feel that he has a better way. Oftentimes an ambitious young child realizes that all that glitter is not gold.

Many times we need failures to make us better. We need to see our most cherished dreams squandered to the point that we are nearly broken. When this happens we come out new. The old hymnwriter stated "no cross no crown." If we are going to appreciate the ups of life we must have the downs. If the sunshine will have its fullest impact upon us we must have the rain. The better things of life are appreciated only to the degree that somewhere down the line we have a variety of ups and downs, sunshine and rain and all of those things at work that will in the end bring about an appreciation for the better things of life.

The prodigal would never have been able to appreciate a forgiving father had he stayed home. The father never would have grown to the stature that he did in his dealings with his son, had not a wayward son come into his life. All of these things go hand in hand. All of them must become a part of our lives if we ever live life to its fullest degree.

In the sight of every boy today the father must symbolize all that is worthwhile and noble. When all other forces have turned their backs on this wayward child the father must stand as a harbor of peace and serenity. The father in each young man's life must be that force that will make for stabilizing that will not be found anywhere else. There must be a source of encouragement in each child that speaks out above and beyond every failure and set back this son or daughter might have—this must be an understanding father.

Only to the degree—that the father is able to hold his equilibrium and hold fast to those things that are most meaningful will he be able to project these things into a child. This is the solemn duty of every father in this day and time. Only by doing this can we measure up to what is expected of us as fathers.

Fisk Race Relations Meet Begins Monday

More than 140 workers in the field of race relations from more than 30 states will gather in Nashville between June 25 and July 7 for the 19th Annual Race Relations Institute to be held on the campus of Fisk University.

The participants will represent public and private agencies, ranging from state and municipal anti-discrimination commissions to church-sponsored groups and organizations of interested private citizens working for interracial harmony.

The Institute is a joint project of the race relations programs of the United Church of Christ, carried on under the auspices of its American Missionary Association Division and its Council for Christian Social Action. Co-operating sponsors are the Department of Racial and Cultural Relations of the National Council of Churches and Fisk University.

ANNUAL EVENT
These yearly institutions are an active expression of the continuing interest which both the Congregational Christian and Evangelical and Reformed Churches, which recently merged to form the United Church of Christ, have shown in the training of present and future leaders in intergroup relations work. The institutes are designed to help these workers assess new problems and strategies in this rapidly growing and changing field.

Dr. Herman Long, director of the institute and of the church's race relations department, said, in describing the 1962 meeting, that "Our theme this year—Human Rights and the Public Interest—reflects our belief that we have entered a new phase of race relations change which is singularly political in character and implication."

SPEAKERS
The theme is manifest in several presentations concerned with racial factors in national and regional politics scheduled for the first week:

Prentiss Institute, A 'Landmark' For Educating Negro Students In South

Prentiss Normal & Industrial Institute, situated in the southern part of Mississippi is located about one mile from the town of Prentiss. The institute was founded in 1907 by the late Prof. J. E. Johnson and his wife who is now president of the school.

At this time, educational facilities for Negro students were lacking in public and private schools in Mississippi. This encouraged the Johnsons to help remedy some of the shortcomings in the field of education for Negroes in the south.

As native Mississippians, they were in a position to know first hand the handicaps faced by young Negroes who longed for a better way of life in the field of education.

They chose Prentiss as a starting point. The agenda began with lectures in local churches and door-to-door missionary work.

Soon, they were able to secure an ante-bellum house, located on a 40 acre site. On the opening day of classes, 40 beginners and elementary students showed up.

Prentiss Institute is primarily a junior college and vocational school. The faculty and board of directors strive to prepare Negro students to enter senior colleges upon completing their academic work. Institute tries to qualify students to continue in trade fields of learning taught at the institute. Every student is given individual attention and assistance in adjusting to surrounding environments.

COURSES OFFERED
Upon the death of Prof. Johnson in 1933, Mrs. Johnson was elected to the presidency of the school, which now offers courses in business administration, music, bricklaying, dry cleaning and pressing, shoe repairing, carpentry, auto mechanics, vocational photography and kindergarten, elementary and high school courses.

The institute also participates in the National Defense Student Loan Program, intercollegiate sports, football, basketball and baseball. The school is non-sectarian, but Christian.

Enrollment this session reached 300 students with a staff of 28, on a plant of 500 acres consisting of 24 buildings with financial support from individuals, business, foundations and church groups of several denominations, and offers opportunities to young Negroes in the south who are from low income families many of whom are permitted to work out all or part of their educational expenses.

The institute has always prided itself on being the moving spirit in many new ventures. The work of the Jeanes Fund in Mississippi began at Prentiss, providing agents as assistants to the various county superintendents of education to supervise Negro public schools.

In 1923 the first Negro farm extension agent in the state of Mississippi began his work. The American Sunday School Union, with headquarters in Philadelphia, Penn., also began work in Prentiss for Negroes.

The first governor and the first state superintendent of education to deliver commencement day addresses at a Negro school in Mississippi, since Reconstruction days was at Prentiss Institute in 1945 and '46 respectively.

Notable graduates of the institute include Dr. B. T. Griffith, class of 1921, now chairman of the department of biology, Savannah State College, Savannah, Ga.; Rev. John Falconer, class of 1945, now West African supervisor of the foreign mission board of the National Baptist Convention, Monrovia, Liberia; Dr. Jonas E. Richmond, class of 1945, now with Harvard University's Medical School department of biological chemistry and Mrs. Lela Hawthorn Allen, registered nurse, class of 1921, now residing in Louisville, Ky., and sister Hilda Manson, class of 1928 of Brookhaven, Miss., who was recently commissioned the first Negro woman officer of the Episcopal Church Army.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS

Intellectuals To Share Spotlight At ATA Confab

BRAINPOWER

When the American Teachers Association meets in its 59th Annual Convention on July 25-28 in Miami, Fla., some of the nations most respected intellectuals will be on hand.

The list of speakers and consultants reads like a miniature volume of Who's Who In America: Dr. Horace Mann Bond, former president of Lincoln University (Pennsylvania) and currently Dean of the School of Education, Atlanta University; Dr. Kenneth B. Clark, Professor of Psychology, City College of New York, and associate director, Northside Center For Child Development; Dr. Allison Davis, Professor of Education, University of Chicago and co-author (with John Dollard) of "Children of Bondage";

Dr. James C. Evans, consultant, Manpower Division, U. S. Department of Defense; Dr. Eli Ginzberg, author of "The Negro Potential," and Dean of the Graduate School of Business, Columbia University; Dr. John U. Monro, Dean of Harvard College, Cambridge, Mass.; Honorable George L. P. Weaver, assistant secretary, U. S. Department of Labor; and Dr. Whitney A. Young, director, National Urban League, and former Dean, the School of Social Work, Atlanta University.

This is one of the greatest concentrations of brainpower ever assembled at one time in America. These eminent and renowned scholars are concerned about the American Teachers Association and its objective: The equality of education for every child; the equality of professional status for every teacher. They are interested in exploring the theme of the convention: Equality in Education For A Technical Age.

This brilliant array of talent will provide stimulation and enrichment for the representatives of the 35,000 member organizations who will be in attendance at the convention.

The American Teachers Association is now one of the most functionally significant organizations of educators in the nation. Its program emphasis is on quality of, as well as equality in, education.

Its membership comes from the ranks of College administrators and professors, secondary and elementary school administrators and teachers; from many races and creeds; from nearly every State.

Meanwhile its effect is being felt in Congress and in State Legislatures. The American Teachers Association is proud of its forthcoming convention program.

Plan Fight On Gradual Desegregation Of Parks

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — (UPI) —Negro leaders said they will take to the U. S. Supreme Court their attempt to immediately desegregate Memphis parks and recreational facilities.

The U. S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati Tuesday upheld a gradual plan for desegregation of the facilities. The plan was first approved by federal district Judge Marion S. Boyd here last June 15.

Attorneys for the plaintiffs said the decision would be appealed "as soon as the written opinion of the court has been received and studied."

FOUND PROPER
The appeals court ruled integration of the city's park facilities was proceeding properly and legally.

"We have before us a program of desegregation that has been carried out, is being carried out at the present time, and will be carried out in the future until all of the city's parks, playgrounds and recreational facilities are desegregated," it said.

Attorneys Russell B. Sugarman, representing the plaintiffs, said he knew of no other decision "which has upheld a gradual desegregation plan in the field of public recreation."

WILL NOT STAND
Another attorney, H. T. Lockard, said "the decision will not stand."

The gradual plan, which calls for desegregation of all such facilities by 1972, was praised by city officials and park representatives.

Dixie Schools Complete 1st Year Of Desegregation Without Violence

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — The South's public schools have completed their first year without violence since 1954, when the U. S. Supreme Court ruled compulsory segregation unconstitutional, Southern School News reported this month.

Mob action, boycotts or bombings occurred over new school desegregation during each of the first seven years after the court's decision, the paper said. As the 1954-55 school term opened and Negroes began entering schools with whites, protests flared in Baltimore, Md.; Washington, D. C.; Milford, Del.; and several West Virginia communities.

The major incident of violence in the 1955-56 school year occurred at the University of Alabama, where whites rioted when Autherine Lucy, attended school for three days.

Desegregation attempts in the next school year, 1956-57, resulted in the use of the National Guard to quell violence in Clay and Sturgis, Ky., and Clinton, Tenn. The governor of Texas sent Texas rangers to control public protests against desegregation in Mansfield.

Violence over school desegregation reached its peak during the 1957-58 session, with the use of armed troops at Little Rock, Ark., and the dynamiting of a Nashville, Tenn., elementary school. Clinton, Tenn., returned to the news headlines the next year, 1958-59, when a dynamite blast destroyed a wing of the desegregated high school.

On Labor Day, 1959, two made extensive preparations when the troops had to avoid violence last fall when their public schools desegregated.

In several Southern communities, violence caused the school administration building after the Supreme Court decision, 1960-61, began peacefully but the quiet ended in November when whites marched and picketed in New Orleans to protest integration of two elementary schools.

The last violence over school desegregation in the region occurred at the University of Georgia in January, 1961, when two Negroes entered the school under court order. Public officials in Atlanta, Memphis, Tenn., and Dallas, Tex., made extensive preparations when the troops had to avoid violence last fall when their public schools desegregated.

16-Year-Old Girl Selected Mississippi 4-H Champion

A 16-year-old Mississippi 4-H girl, who began her club work by converting sardine cans into attractive ashtrays for her parents and ended up helping them build a beautiful new home, has been named State 4-H home improvement champion of the year.

The 4-H'er is Helen Mason, who lives on a farm near Columbus, Miss. In seven years of club work, she has had a garden, beautified her yard, done canning, freezing, and meal preparation, made clothing, curtains, and ashtrays, and led a community-wide campaign in refinishing old furniture, reports her home demonstration agent, Mrs. Sadie H. Wier.

Helen, a 10th grader at Robert E. Hunt high school, is now cleaning bricks from an old chimney and saving money from the sale of chickens she has raised to build a barbecue pit and an outdoor patio.

New Program To Present Students Views On Race

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — "Desegregation is advantageous to both races." "We should try to foster better relationship with all." "Segregation is an international problem. Every possible opportunity should be taken to bring about its demise." "Tactics of certain mass protests are not good. Efforts should be directed in areas that provide the most good for the masses."

These statements represent the philosophies of numerous college students throughout the nation who have participated in mass protests designed to minimize racial discrimination.

The person who is doing much to bring to the public these views of hundreds of college students is Lo Jelks, a 1960 graduate of Clark college in Atlanta, is preparing a news and public affairs program for syndicated broadcast that will feature student views on their protest against segregation.

Jelks has developed a tentative list of 16 colleges to visit and last week interviewed students at Gibbs Junior college, the only "junior" institution considered.

The New York university, Atlanta, homelands listed taste lanta university, Bennett col-and diet reasons for drinking lege, Hampton institute, John-it, and price and convenience son C. Smith, Shaw univer-sity, Morgan State, Southern university, Tuskegee institute, Tougalou college, Hunter college, North Carolina college, Howard university, Clark, and Miles college, are the institutions that Jelks will contact for student views.

Jelks, a St. Petersburg native, says "the whole tone of the program will be intimate and colorful, and yet it will make an interesting, informal and somewhat sophisticated program that will build a following."

"The students have inserted the youthfulness and vigor needed in this fight" Jelks stated in explaining why there will be no adult commentary from faculty members.

The hour-long documentary will be released to Negro radio stations in the fall.

Yes We All Talk

A TEXTBOOK BY MARCUS H. BOULWARE

QUESTION: Our club is thinking of using "Roberts' Rules of Order" as its manual of authority. Would you consider this a good choice?

ANSWER: This manual is considered the last word on parliamentary law, but it is too advanced for the average club member. It is designed for those persons who are well versed on parliamentary procedure. Hence, many national organizations can profit from its use.

For the average small club, I recommend a simpler book. For example, Textbook on Parliamentary Law, published by the Macmillan Company with offices in New York City, Atlanta, and Dallas.

This book assumes that the student knows nothing about parliamentary procedure, and therefore discusses the fundamental principles, giving the reasons behind the purposes of the various motions.

READERS: For my parliamentary law chart of motions, send fifty cents to cover cost of handling to Dr. M. H. Boulware, Box 310-A, Florida A & M University, Tallahassee, Fla.

Poll Reveals High Use Of Dry Milk

WASHINGTON, D. C. — A survey among 4,598 white and 1,873 Negro families in 110 cities of six southern states shows that about one-half of them use instant dry milk.

The survey, conducted in Alabama, Kentucky, Mississippi, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia by the agricultural experiment stations in these states, was designed to find out more about why consumers accept or reject new food products or new forms of old products.

Among the families that said they use instant dry milk, about half use it for cooking and drinking, and the rest for cooking only. When asked what they liked about the milk, homemakers listed taste and diet reasons for drinking lege, Hampton institute, John-it, and price and convenience son C. # SOCIETY Merry Go-Round

BY MARJORIE I. ULEN

Summertime, circa 1962, will witness the annual penchants for wanderlust in contemporary Americans which result in wanderings all over our fair land and abroad.

EUROPE IS BECKONING two of our young people. JUNIENNE BRISCOE AND WILLIAM (BILLY) BARTHOLOMEW will be among the avalanche of tourists to gravitate to the Old World for the experiences that are afforded no where else on earth.

JUNIENNE, an Indiana university sophomore and daughter of Lonnie and Melba Briscoe, is a delegate to the International Congregational Council which meets in Rotterdam, Holland, July 4-12.

The lovely and talented coed is all affluter anent the trip which will also take her on a tour of six countries — England, Scotland, France, Switzerland, Germany and Holland. She will motor as far as Philadelphia with her father, and from there will join her group at Pottstown, Pa. From there it's on to New York and a flight to the Continent. Juniennine will be gone for a month, and her trip is the envy of scores of her friends here, who will delight in hearing the interesting details when she returns late in July.

BILLY BARTHOLOMEW has just graduated from Rutgers university at New Brunswick, N. J., and he will be a part of the Rutgers group that is going abroad for the Grand Tour that is the crowning climax of any college education. When he returns he is slated for a two year stint with the U. S. Army. He has a $1,500 grant for graduate study, and has been accepted by NYU, when he leaves the Army.

VACATION EXODUS
LILLIAN NEWMAN has just returned from a month's trip to St. Paul and Minneapolis, Minn., where her husband is now based; and life in the Twin Cities was really interesting. A grand surprise was the luscious Autumn Haze mink jacket stole which her husband presented her as a special gift — and that is the kind of surprise which warms the heart of any lady.

She was particularly glad to see Elize Doggett Lyles, former Memphisian, who resides there with her wonderful family. And a particularly noteworthy social event attended by Lillian was the Alpha formal.

However, for Lil, there's more fun in store, to be gained during her next jaunt which will take her to Detroit next week, where she will visit members of the Hill clan, including her mother, Mrs. Beulah Hill, and sisters, brother and nieces — including Lucille H. Foster, Mr. and Mrs. Shelton Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lemons and Mr. and Mrs. Julius Johnson.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. was the destination of the Lewis H. Triggs, Sr., and Jr., when Lewis and Ann Reba and Lewis, Jr. and Myrna motored down to visit with their daughter and sister and her husband, Clara

Ann and George Mims. COLLEGE SET PARTY DOWN HERNANDO, Miss. way, EURALIA and CHARLES FLETCHER were hosts at a gay collegian al fresco party which complimented their niece Eurallia (TONI) MOORE last week.

The lush, verdant grounds of the Fletcher estate was a perfect setting for the lively party which comprised Toni's friends from Lincoln university where she is a student, and many other schools. Dancing on the front terrace and on the grounds, teamed with succulent barbecued chicken, baked beans salad, hors d'oeuvre, soft drinks and games really spelled a delightful way to have a party.

Toni's escort was Eddie Lane of Fort Worth, Texas; and other Lincolinites. Motoring down were Eddie Lane of Fort Worth, Texas; Gregory Adams of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Barbara Jeans, Mary Alice Bland, Rose Cooper, William Hempton, Constance Jones, Grambling, La.

Others attending were Roosevelt Hancock of Fisk; Robbie Tate, Spelman; John Hooks, Walter Hooks, Willie Flowers and Bernard Robinson of Memphis State; TSUers Carolyn Wells and Mylo Wells; Robert Flynn of Owen college, Lavan Webb, Morehouse; Chris Booth, LeMoyné, Jean Latting, Douglas college, Stephen Boone, St. Benedict; Lillian Fisher, Bobby Banks and Perlyn Banks, Charlotte Hines, Oletta Robinson, David Scruggs, and Lincoln Alumnus, Herman Adams.

CHIT CHAT
The South Parkway manse of Dr. and Mrs. W. O. Speight, Jr. was aglow inside and about the verdant grounds and back gardens last Thursday night, when The Alphabettes entertained their counterparts — members of the graduate chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity. Scores of hurricane lamps outlined the verdant park-like grounds of the stately Tudor-styled home.

Visiting Memphis last week were Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Sims and daughter Joye, who stopped in Memphis to visit friends, before motoring to Galveston, Texas. Mr. Sims is the coach at Haynes high school in Nashville.

Cornelia Crenshaw received rave notices for her appearance as commentator at the Cabaret sponsored by the Detroit LeMoyné Club last week. The swish fashion-cabaret show was held in connection with the annual celebration of LeMoyné Week by Detroit Alumni, which is annually highlighted by the appearance of Dr. Hollis F. Price as guest speaker at the Plymouth Congregational church there.

The appearance of Dr. Price has become a tradition, and he was present this year, along with LeMoyné's well-known public relations director and alumni secretary, Robert M. Ratcliffe.

A fascinating newcomer to our city is personality-plus Miss Astra Sengstacke of Chicago and New York, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Whittier Sengstacke, publisher of the New TSD. Miss Sengstacke has joined the staff of The De-

"Oh, dear! I'm afraid somebody played a joke on me!"

Other Peoples BUSINESS

By A. L. FOSTER

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR
COSMOPOLITAN CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

There is nothing more frustrating than for one to have to make a choice between two important affairs which occur on the same date. This, in a city like Chicago where so many vitally important and interesting affairs are held, is unavoidable but if the major organizations would clear their dates at least some conflict could be avoided. The Cosmopolitan Chamber of Commerce again offers its facilities as a clearing house for "coming events."

On the same night that the Chicago Defender inducted 18 distinguished businessmen into its Round Table of Commerce at the Sheraton Blackstone, the Advisory Committee of the Robert Taylor Park held a Recognition Program honoring George T. Donoghue, former general superintendent of the Chicago Park District.

I felt obligated to attend both. I am a member of the Citizens Committee of the Robert Taylor Housing Project and the Defender is a member of the Cosmopolitan Chamber but there were other reasons which made me want to attend both.

I regard Donoghue as one of my very good friends. When I came to Chicago in 1925 he was one of the first to invite me. I then lived in a big frame house in Washington Park. Every morning he and his daughter took a walk through the park and since I also liked to take early walks, we sometimes met and had interesting conversation.

Donoghue's attitude on the race question was clear and unequivocal. As the then Superintendent of the South Side Park District, Donoghue would not compromise on the rights of all citizens to use all of the facilities of the parks and beaches.

There was a time when most Negroes, voluntarily, went to the beach at 31st St. Since we lived on 51st we decided to go to the nearest beach which was off Jackson Park around 55th. There were only the four of us, my wife and two sons. Some racists who had appointed themselves to keep the beach there lily-white took it upon themselves to order us to the 31st Street beach "where you people belong."

When I reported the matter to Donoghue, he took immediate steps to check the interference and to give us adequate police protection. Incidentally, protection also came from another quarter. When former newspaper man Hugh Gardner, my old friend and school mate at Ohio State and always a fearless scrapper, learned that we had been threatened, he came regularly to the beach and swam with us "just in case."

Later, Dr. C. V. Dudley, came by each morning and joined us.

JIM-CROW FENCE
When the Park District erected a fence around the beach house to develop a commercial area with tables, umbrellas, refreshments, etc., and was charged with setting that area aside for "whites only" Donoghue had an opening cut at the northern border and not only issued a statement in the press that no discrimination or segregation would be tolerated, but encouraged Negroes with whom he came in contact to use that and all other sections of the beach.

Donoghue deserved to be honored.

On the other hand, among those inducted into the Round Table were officers of firms who are staunch members of the Cosmopolitan Chamber.

There were Samuel R. Berry of the Star Paper and other companies, a Chamber board member, George Beavers, Jr. of Golden State Mutual Life Insurance company of Los Angeles, Millard D. Robbins, Jr. of the Insurance Agency bearing his name and James W. Fryer of the Chicago Metropolitan Mutual Assurance company. Board Chairman George S. Harris, President Lewis A. H. Caldwell and other Chamber officers and members were present to honor their fellow members.

principal, Joseph J. Dixon who is doing a very satisfactory job of guiding the destinies of that great institution.

1941 ACTION
It was in 1941 that a committee of irate citizens came to me at the Urban League and asked us to help sponsor a mass meeting "to protest the establishment of Dunbar."

Members of the delegation accused the board of education with creating Dunbar so that Negro boys and girls could not attend any of the Technical High Schools and would receive only an inferior education intended for dull pupils.

They said it was a scheme of the board to withhold a type of education which would prepare Negroes for other than menial tasks.

We not only refused to go along with their program, we became strong advocates for the establishment of Dunbar and worked cooperatively with Philip M. McNamee, the first assistant superintendent in charge of vocational education.

As I toured the present magnificent Dunbar and saw the throngs of parents, students and visitors June 1, 1962, I could not help but wonder how those who opposed the Dunbar idea in September, 1942 felt in June, 1962. I am certain that Clifford J. Campbell who weathered the storm of criticism as Dunbar's first director and went on to become Deputy Commissioner of the Department of City Planning and members of the present staff who were also on the original faculty, were as proud of those of us who fought for Dunbar.

They are Jeremiah M. Collins, Mae Etta Dawson, Mrs. Charles H. Harper, Mrs. Willie B. Minefee, Claybourne Norris, William Rauen, Leon Scott and Arthur N. Turnball. Neal F. Simeon, now director of special programs in vocational education was also on the original faculty.

In 1942 Dunbar opened with a faculty of 16 and a student body of less than 400 in an elementary school and a number of antiquated portables at 4401 St. Lawrence. Today Dunbar is housed in the most modern vocational school building in America with a faculty of 98 and a student body of 2,250.

George S. Harris' address at the Wearborn Real Estate Board's dinner entitled "Negro Leadership and the Future of the American City" was a masterpiece. Fortunately the address in mimeographed form was available and my copy becomes a prized possession.

William Baxter Collier was an efficient master-of-ceremonies and Superior Court Judge Richard Harewood installed reelected James W. Lynch as president and splendid corps of officers. Especially honored as always was Elmore Baker, founder and first president. Baker was also one of the founders of the Cosmopolitan Chamber.

Now it appears that another date of frustration is in the offing. The testimonial to Samuel B. Stratton on the occasion of his retirement from the Chicago Public Schools and the Sixth Annual Freedom Fund dinner both are on June 17. Fortunately, both affairs are at McCormick Place, so one may attend both. James Kemp, State Rep. Corneal Davis and Theodore A. Jones will be honored at the NAACP affair.

The Cosmopolitan Chamber has on hand a supply of pamphlets, entitled "Your Rights If You Are Arrested," prepared by William G. Clark attorney general of Illinois. Call and get a copy. "Destination: Tomorrow," a booklet published by Golden State Mutual Insurance Company and distributed to help stem the tide of student drop-outs is an effective piece of literature.

Hank Schwab is now a publisher. His "And All That Jazz" is proving popular among lovers of jazz and others. An attractive brochure describes the new Cortez W. Peters Business College at 110 E. 79th and you should pay this new structure a visit. The formal opening was last Sunday with capacity attendance.

Predict Rise In Airlines Cargo

The United Air Lines vice president in charge of cargo sales predicts that by 1975, the air freight industry could reach "8 to 10 billion (B) ton miles."

R. L. Mangold said that air cargo shipments have risen from 14,500,000 ton miles at the end of World War II to 725 million ton miles in 1961.

MRS. RUTH TANNER, of Chicago, president of Alpha Chi Delta Sorority, chats with William E. Jackson (left) and Robert A. Carty, Schenley Import Company national marketing specialists, at sorority's annual social for the benefit of local charities. Entertainment was provided by Brook Benton, popular song stylist, and Red Saunders and his orchestra. Social was held at Roberts Show Lounge in Chicago's South Side. Dewar's "White Label" was the popular Scotch served at the party.

Gibbs College Featured In Florida Realtors Yearbook

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Gibbs Junior college's story has another outlet for publication. President John W. Rembert has disclosed that his institution will be one of many state institutions of higher learning that will be featured in the 1962 Yearbook and Roster issue of "The Florida Realtor."

"Higher Education in Florida" is the theme of "The Realtor," according to editor Roger Hurst. Hurst informed Dr. Rembert that the 150-page yearbook will include general articles on higher education and will also review many of the state's colleges, universities, and junior colleges.

Gibbs' success story will tell of the institution's phenomenal rise from 200 students and eight teachers to more than 750 students and 50-odd teachers in five years.

Also spotlighted will be the achievements of the institution in curricular and co-curricular.

The yearbook is scheduled for distribution in October to 8,300 members of the Realtors' Association; to many of Florida's newspapers, libraries and Chambers of Commerce, and to a sizeable out-of-state mailing list.

Shell's New Road Maps Have Lures For Chicago

The Wrigley Building at night is featured in a color photograph on the cover of Shell Oil Company's road map. "We feel the photograph of the Wrigley Building will give prospective visitors a little flavor of Chicago. And we hope it will encourage people to visit this area," E. F. McGee, manager of Shell's Chicago marketing division said.

French Renaissance in style, this terra-cotta building is white by day and appears incandescent at night. The building's enormous clock has numerals 3 1/2 feet in height.

"Motorists take road maps for granted, but this year oil companies will spend over $12 million and give away about 170 million road maps," McGee added.

The 91 maps Shell distributes through its dealers are revised and brought up to date annually. Hundreds of changes and thousands of man-hours are needed to keep even one map current.

The 1962 map of Michigan Greyhound, in conjunction with Gray Coach Lines, intercity bus operating company of the Toronto Transit Commission, began through-bus service June 1 between Toronto and Calgary on the new Trans-Canada Highway.

Greyhound's luxurious Courrier-Challenger Canadian buses will travel the 2,215 miles in 57 hours and 15 minutes — two hours and 45 minutes faster than using former routes.

It is the first trans-Canada through-bus service ever offered.

'62 Business Outlook Good Business prospects remain good for the rest of 1962 and perhaps longer despite the lagging behavior of several economic indicators, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago said.

In its monthly "Business Conditions" report, the bank said some economists are lowering their forecasts because employment and gross national production have failed to rise as rapidly as they hoped earlier in the year.

But the bank said business developments thus far in 1962 provide a basis for continued optimism.

Method Sought To Attract Homeowners To Remodel Under New FHA Insurance

By EDWARD COWAN
WASHINGTON — (UPI) — What's ailing the government's new program of insurance for loans to fix up older houses?

To date, there has been very little activity in the program. Disappointment in government circles is especially keen because high hopes had been invested in the program when it was proposed to Congress in 1961.

At that time, Federal Housing Administration Commissioner Neal J. Hardy estimated his agency would insure 65,000 of the new home improvement loans between July 1, 1961 and June 30, 1962.

Latest available FHA figures, through March 30, show 696 loan insurance applications received and 295 approved. The 696 approved average $5,000.

OFFICIAL OPTIMISTIC
"I'm not very happy about it but I'm optimistic we can do better," Hardy said in an interview.

To find out why so few applications have come in, Hardy plans to meet later by early July with groups of contractors and lenders.

Hardy hopes to learn from them what features of the program are bogging it down. The home improvement loan insurance was the most novel feature of the housing program unveiled early in 1961 by the then newly arrived Kennedy administration.

Hardy and Housing Administrator Robert C. Weaver believed they had a tool for arresting blight in older cities and neighborhoods and forestalling bulldozer-type urban renewal.

The idea was to make it easy for home owners — including landlords of tenements worth saving — to modernize, expand and renovate older houses. Maximum terms of 6 per cent interest, $10,000 of insurance and 20 years to repay, and one-half of 1 per cent insurance premium were prescribed. With the government taking the risk, a ready supply of loan money was anticipated.

Try DeWitt's Pills, famous around the world. Direct diuretic action of DeWitt's Pills helps flush out acid wastes, increases kidney activity, and reduces minor bladder irritations. A mild analgesic in DeWitt's Pills often brings fast, palliative relief of symptomatic pains in back, joints and muscles.

These terms contrasted favorably from the home owner's viewpoint with the older FHA home improvement loan program. Its limits are $3,500 and five years. Borrowers usually pay about 9 1/4 per cent interest.

The difference in return to the lender is cited as one reason the new program is moving slowly. But FHA officials are cautiously optimistic that lenders, as they become familiar with the New loans, will find them attractive.

Working in that direction, it is said, is the need of banks and savings associations to boost earnings to cover recent savings accounts. With mortgage money in abundant supply, lenders are believed to be under pressure to put idle funds to work.

BANKERS SLOW
"Where can you get a better deal than a 6 per cent return with the government taking all the risk?" one FHA official asked rhetorically. Suggesting that bankers, conservative by instinct, are slow to try something new, the official said "it's only a matter of time before this becomes a pretty sizeable operation."

Officials are hopeful that many more home owners are interested in the loans but they have no way of measuring how much interest there is. Hardy believes many owners just don't know about the program.

One reason for the program's slow start is that FHA didn't get all its forms and regulations out until November. Since then applications have totaled from 75 to 140 a month — not much, but enough to prompt FHA officials to increase interest paid on loans to dispute House & Home magazine's "flop of the year" tag for the program.

Weakest part of the program so far has been the urban renewal side. The rules are more liberal for rehabilitation of houses in urban renewal areas. But as of March 31 only seven applications covering nine dwelling units have been received.

Bogging down activity in this area have been technical difficulties concerning such matters as estimating work to be done and advancing funds. FHA officials say local authorities are very much interested, nonetheless.

Another problem is that under the law non-occupant owners of houses in tenement buildings, for example — cannot get as large a loan as owner-occupants. Hardy figures the non-occupant landlord can get an FHA loan equal to only 83 per cent of modernization costs. That, he said, requires too big a cash outlay. Congress probably will be asked to change the law, Hardy indicated.

New High Speed Freight Started By Penn Railroad
The Astronaut, a new fast freight train designed for perishable products and other cargo requiring cross-country speed, has been placed in service by the Pennsylvania railroad, Henry W. Large, vice president and regional manager, announced.

Symbolized "Train AST-2" and scheduled for speeds up to 60 miles an hour, the Astronaut leaves Chicago at 9 a.m. and has scheduled delivery the following night in the New York area and arrival second morning in the Boston area, representing savings in the latter area of up to 24 hours.

Its route in the east is the same as the PRR's Yankee Jet, which has been making freight history since its introduction a year ago.

It provides all-rail service, including icing, to the east and eliminates floating operations in New York harbor.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations. Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all — this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months! In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®) — the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.

EBONY STARS OUT FRONT

In this column sometime ago, the now defunct Negro American League was the subject of attention. Before Negroes were admitted for play in the majors, the sepi stars performed in their own American and National circuits.

We pointed out that practically all early Negro players were signed to play in the majors after the successful "Jackie Robinson experiment," were products of the Negro leagues. Thus the claims by league officials that fans were being treated to a Triple "A" brand of baseball certainly were justified. The high caliber of play was further illustrated when Negro leaguers more than held their own when they barnstormed with the white major leaguers.

Ernie Banks of the Chicago Cubs, Elston Howard of the New York Yankees, Francisco Herrera of the Philadelphia Phillies, Hank Thompson of the New York Giants, Connie Johnson of Baltimore, a n d Hall of Fame Jackie Robinson, were all produced by t h e same club—the fabled Kansas City Monarchs.

NEW CROP GOOD
A gaze at recent major league statistics is indicative that the new crop of ebony players are chips off the same old block.

In nine hitting and pitching categories in the two major leagues, sepi standouts led and placed second in 26 of the possible 36 places. Billy Williams of Chicago, and Felipe Alou, San Francisco, were the National League batting leaders with .346 and .341 averages, respectively.

The American League batting leader for most of the season Manny Jimenez of Kansas City, dropped to second place. His .340 mark is just four points back of the leader, Willie Mays still leads the homerun derby with 21.

The Dodgers' Tommy Davis is the leader in hits, and runs batted in. The fleet-footed Maury Wills of the Dodgers is stealing bases with such reckless abandon, that the great Ty Cobb's record is in jeopardy. Wills has made 33 thefts to take a good lead over teammate Willie Davis.

Chicago White Sox outfielder Floyd Robinson was second in total hits, but leads in RBIs, doubles, and triples. The Angels' Leon Wagner, a robust swinger, has clouted 16 homers, one off the American League pace set by another free swinger, Jim Gentile of Baltimore.

Ironically, only one Negro player is listed among the top pitchers in either league. Oddly enough, Jim "Mudcat" Grant of Cleveland is o n l y with the club when he can get an army furlough or weekend pass from Uncle Sam. Grant shut out the Yanks in a key game last week and then shut back to camp with a 4-1 record.

WEST MEDALIST

Nashville's Miss M. M. Carney shot a 96 to take medalist honors among the women. Robert "Bubba" Jeter's 77 gave him the best round in the men's Senior Division. Delaney Richmond was the first flight leader in the Junior Division when he turned in a 76.

40 Teachers Attend Workshop At LeMoyné

Forty public school teachers taking advantage of Audio-Visual and English workshops at LeMoyné College this summer have been alerted to some of the newest techniques of teaching. Similar workshops are being conducted throughout the nation.

Among those impressed by results of the two workshops at LeMoyné was E. C. Stimbert, superintendent of city schools, who congratulated the college for offering the courses and praised those enrolled in the classes.

In a talk to a general assembly of the two groups, Stimbert issued a call for more dedicated teachers.

WORKSHOPS
The English workshop, conducted by the college's English department, is a three-week course ending June 22. The Audio-Visual workshop, under the direction of Mrs. Charles P. Roland, was in session June 4-9 with six hours of classroom work each day. Visiting professor and lecturer for this workshop was Dr. Edward O. Minor, an expert in graphics from Florida A. and M. University at Tallahassee.

A SUCCESS
There were 25 in the Audio-Visual workshop and 15 in the English workshop.

The English workshop is under the direction of Mrs. Velma R. McEmore, chairman of the department; Dr. Juanita Williamson, Dr. Ralph Johnson and James R. Miller.

Because of the success of the workshops, department heads plan conducting them again next year.

Learn To Play Golf At Clinic On June 26-27

A clinic designed to stimulate a wider interest and participation in golf will be sponsored Tuesday and Wednesday, June 26-27 by the manager and professional of the Fuller Golf Course, Robert Wright.

Particular stress is being placed on the participation of children and teenagers.

Wright pointed out that one of his former child proteges, Pies Jones, won a city-wide golf tournament, Sunday, June 17, at Fuller Park. He coached Jones in fundamentals of golf when the local champion was in his early teens, at the old Douglas Park course.

The clinic, will emphasize the principles of golf. Everything will be free, according to Wright, including instruction, golf clubs, and balls.

The JACKSON Scene by Anna C. Cooke

June still moves on as being the perfect month for weddings and in Jackson one of social interest was the Neilson-Givens wedding on June 10.

MISS NEILSON HONORED
A miscellaneous shower complimented Miss Sandra Neilson on Thursday preceding her marriage in the lovely home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Mitchell on Hays Avenue. Hostesses were Mesdames Mitchell and Daisy R. Shaw, Delta sorors of Miss Neilson.

The shower table was decorated with a huge umbrella ruffled in blue and pink and laden underneath with gifts from her many Jackson friends. The bride-to-be showed much excitement as she opened boxes containing many useful and beautiful household items. Guests enjoyed frappe, assorted cookies, mints and nuts.

Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Neilson, entertained the bridal party at a rehearsal dinner on Saturday afternoon in their ultra-modern home on Hays Avenue. For wedding party, see story.

FEEDING BEEF CATTLE

More than 50 per cent of the beef cattle producers in the South sell their cattle as feeder calves or grass fed cattle. The general explanation for this is that it just isn't possible to feed cattle and make a profit.

The situation occurs in this manner: The Mid-South Beef Producers sell their cattle as feeder calves. These calves are bought by beef producers of Western and Northern areas, placed on feed for a period of four to eight months, re-shipped back to the south and sold. Logical reasoning tell us that this could not continue if it was unprofitable. Incidentally the Mid-South is known as beef cattle paradise because of its long growing season and mild winter. Feeding demonstration conducted throughout the mid-south shows that it is possible to feed beef cattle at a profit.

CRUSHED CORN Factors which will determine the success of a feeding program are good quality cattle, legume hay, grains and managerial ability.

An example of the profits in feeding beef cattle was revealed in a feeding demonstration conducted by O. D. Maclin, of Route 2, Somerville, Tenn. Maclin placed 17 steers and heifers on feed for 140 days. The average weight of the cattle was 450 pounds and valued at $1.615.

They were fed a ration of legume hay, crushed corn and protein supplement. All feed used were home grown products except the supplement.

ON FULL FEED

The cattle were marketed at an average weight of 850 pounds for $3.200, and a labor income of $1.115. He also stated that in other feeding trials he has increased his labor income a n d profits by turning the cattle in an un-harvested corn field for two to three weeks before placing them on full feed. This not only reduces the labor requirement, but also conditions the farm.

In beginning a feeding program, Maclin suggests that the inexperienced farmer start with a small number, obtain help from Agricultural agencies and experience feeding before changing to a complete feeding program.

ALL BENEFIT: From the many advantages, occurring from feeding cattle, the producers, the processor, and the consumer all benefit. By feeding or fattening cattle or grain, the producers increases the weight of the animal, improves the quality of the meat, and secures a higher selling price.

GET THAT JOB . . . Continued from last week.

Completing the Application Form:

You may be asked to complete the company's application form, either before or after your initial interview. It will become a permanent record of you and may be referred to frequently. Follow these simple rules so that each time your application form is referred to, it will give a favorable impression.

1. Follow all instructions exactly.

2. If the application asks for PLACE OF BIRTH, give only city and state, NOT THE STREET ADDRESS OR HOSPITAL WHERE YOU WERE BORN. (believe it or not . . . this happens).

3. If there is a blank for "Salary Desired," and you are not sure what is appropriate, put in "OPEN" rather than a definite amount.

4. Check your GRAMMAR and Spelling.

5. Sign your name and be ready to give the names of at least three personal references, other than relatives, if they are required.

Above all, keep your opportunities alive. Do not be discouraged if you receive an unfavorable decision the first few times you talk to prospective employers. The fact that you were not employed may be no reflection on you.

Even if the interview does not produce a definite lead, it can be used as a valuable help in preparing for future interviews. Whether or not you believe you have any chance of landing a job with the prospective employer, follow up the interview and the application in a few days with a phone call or a letter. When you are given encouragement be reasonably persistent and arrange for a second interview.

If you have agreed to report to work, and later find you cannot accept the position, telephone promptly. This courtesy will keep the door open if you again seek employment there. And once you are employed, you should always bear in mind that your employer is in business to make a profit. You will be expected to do your best to assist in accomplishing that purpose . . . it is to your mutual advantage!
